Seeds of Violence

Low expectations can lead to crime

Our position: Saving the waterfront in the long run is more important than what crops are grown near it, a reason why Indiana’s agriculture policy is a ‘distraction’. If the state wants to ensure a healthy future for its citizens, it needs to invest in education and job training programs that will prepare them for the jobs of the future.

Daniels & Co. churns out laudable energy policy

Our position: Daniels and his team have done an excellent job in addressing energy policy. Their efforts to develop new sources of energy, such as wind and solar power, will help diversify the state’s energy mix and reduce its reliance on coal.
